The Sneeze :: Anton Chekhov

The scene in the play I was able to picture most vividly was the sneeze itself. Cherayakov was sitting behind the General, who is a very important person, and out of nowhere, sneezes the biggest sneeze you could ever imagine. What’s worse is it splattered all over the General’s bald (and possibly shiny) head, which sounds and would look very disgusting in my opinion. Just reading it emphasizes how gross it is, which helps with picturing this scene more vividly.
